

CHARLIE STANDING started playing the piano at the age of four, but no real disasters happened until he was eleven. He took organ lessons from the age of thirteen and has never been able to decide which instrument he prefers.

Over the years he has played swing, jazz and ragtime in various locations of varying repute. He has also played the organ on a more permanent basis at All Saints, East Sheen (from 2002 to 2010), followed by Holy Trinity, South Wimbledon and Holy Trinity, Roehampton.

He now lives in Hastings, where he continues to play in jazz venues and churches that don't know about the scrapes that he's managed to get himself into.

Liza, Beth and Kathy are delighted that Charlie has enthusiastically come up from Hastings to share his experiences and musical talents with the folk of East Sheen.

As you enter a warm church next winter, remember this afternoon, and that not only did it make us laugh it helped pay the heating bills too!
